Background:

The "Fresher's Incubation Programme 2025" is designed to integrate new students into the academic and entrepreneurial environment of the university. Institute-based incubation programs have become fundamental components of experiential education, playing a crucial role in knowledge creation and dissemination.

These programs provide a platform for students to connect with like-minded entrepreneurs, learn best practices, and seek funding from investors. By fostering strategic partnerships between academia and industry, academic incubators establish new forums for idea exchange on campus.

The "Fresher's Incubation Programme 2025" aims to harness this model to support and nurture early-stage entrepreneurial ventures initiated by students, faculty, or alumni of the university. By providing resources, mentorship, and a collaborative environment, the program seeks to equip freshers with the skills and knowledge necessary to thrive in both academic and entrepreneurial pursuits.

The proposed results were:

The "Fresher's Incubation Programme 2025" yielded several notable outcomes:

- Participants enhanced their entrepreneurial competencies, including business planning, market analysis, and financial management.
- The program facilitated connections between students and industry professionals, mentors, and potential investors, expanding their professional networks.
- Several student-led projects progressed from conceptual stages to viable prototypes, demonstrating the practical application of their ideas.
- Through workshops and mentorship, participants gained confidence in their abilities to navigate the entrepreneurial landscape.
- Students developed effective teamwork skills, learning to collaborate across disciplines to achieve common goals.

Participants:

90 students were present from B. Sc. (CS) and M.Sc. TY for FRESHER'S INCUBATION PROGRAM-2025

Report on
Fresher's Incubation Program - 2025

The Incubation and training Program for B. Sc. (CS) TY and M. Sc. (CS) SY students, held on 23 January 2025, was a significant event aimed at orienting Fresher's students to their academic environment and available resources. A total of 90 students & 16 staff of Computer Science department were present, making the event vibrant and engaging. The program was presided over by Angulwar Sir, with notable attendees including Dr. R.B. Shinde (Coordinator Career & Placement Cell), Dr. A. M. Chougule Sir, Sujata Kale ma'am, and Dr. M. A. Karale sir (Members of Career & Placement Cell). The event also featured the special presence of esteemed guest Mr. Neeraj Ade Sir.

The program commenced with an introductory speech by HOD Shinde ma'am who set a positive light on this program. Following this today's honorable guest (the manager of edutech pvt Ltd. Company) enlighten students by presenting PPT about the Incubation and training Program. He introduced the students about the real world of Company and what are the job opportunities and skills needed for the job. He elaborate the concept of Incubation and facilities given by their Company to the students. Also he explained the process of selection and placement.

This Incubation Program for students proved to be successful initiative in nurturing entrepreneurial talent and innovation. It is not only equipped students with essential skills but also gave them the confidence to take real world problem. The program concluded with a vote of thanks delivered by Sujata Kale ma'am expressing gratitude to all speakers and attendees. The event was anchored by BCS TY students Miss. Akanksha Patil and Miss. Gauri Jaju, who effectively guided the proceedings throughout the program.

Overall, the Incubation and training Program was a well-organized event that successfully introduced new B. Sc. (CS) TY, M. Sc. (CS) SY students to their academic journey, providing essential information about the Incubation and training program. The collaborative effort of faculty members and student volunteers contributed to a welcoming atmosphere that encouraged engagement and participation among the new students, making it a memorable experience for all 106 attendees.
